The Fund returned +0.57% in June vs. +0.34% for the TSX Total Return.

Once again, the theme for the month was the successful closing of a large Subscription Receipt deal.

TransCanada Corp.(TRP) bought Houston-based Columbia Pipeline Group Inc.(CPGX) for $10.2-billion (U.S.) in cash and funded part of the transaction with a $4.2-billion (CAD) sale of subscription receipts. Not only was the transaction itself the largest in Canada this year, TransCanada now holds the record at $4.2-billion for the largest bought deal in Canadian history.

While we were very confident in the likelihood of this transaction consummating, there was the potential of an over-bid for CPGX by another player in the space. Typically, the fund captures the spread of this type of equity financing by simply going long the listed subscription receipt (TRP.R) and simultaneously shorting the common stock (TRP). However, in this case we decided to mitigate risk in the announced deal by additionally taking a long position of CPGX to protect ourselves in the unlikely event of a higher bid for Columbia Pipeline.

Regards,

Dave Heden
